London school of barbering is proud to announce the opening this summer of two new premium barbering academies.

One in central London and one in Manchester.

The new vibrant London and Manchester locations will be accessible for training and men getting superb free haircuts by the students.

The training includes students cutting up to six cuts daily on real clients this way the students learn different styles and the real demands of a functioning barbershop.

The educators have many years of experience in the barbering and hair world.

Michael Kontos, Creative Director & Co-Founder says:

"I am delighted to be opening up another LSB academy in London, as our product is strong and reliable with more and more people wanting to invest in our services, with the assurance that they are going to come out with exceptional barbering training, making them highly skilled and employable. I'm especially excited to have another new location in a prime London spot of Liverpool Street/Spitalfields, adding to our portfolio of other academies based at Covent Garden and Farringdon."

Justis McEvilly, Co-Founder says:

"Our hands on training is in such high demand from both, employers wanting to hire highly skilled barbers and clients wanting to get their class free haircut. London being such a vibrant place and the hub of creativity, it is the best place to learn barbering, with some of our students travelling from all over the world to take our training."

London School of Barbering specialises in training complete beginners and current barbers/stylists. Students have the highest probability of employment after LSB training, as a result of our distinctive learning experience and unrivaled reputation in the industry. Our academy boasts an international presence with students travelling from around the world to take our well-sought courses.
