WE'RE ALL IN THIS TOGETHER

With the shared commitment to deliver excellence in education, driving the barbering industry forwards, Fudge Professional and The London School of Barbering have joined forces.

Now an official stockist of Fudge Professional products, all London School of Barbering students will be trained using the brands product portfolio, with the educators using the products to help achieve their own creative projects. In return, London School of Barbering will lend its expertise in barbering education, supporting Fudge Professional with tailored education and hair shows.

Justis McEvilly, Founder and Director of London School of Barbering says of the union, "Our collaboration with Fudge Professional is exciting since these two innovative companies have joined forces to offer the market top-class men's cutting and styling courses for professionals."
Stephanie Bruce, Head of Fudge Professional, goes on to comment, "As a brand for the professional hairdresser, we are keen to progress our collaborations with companies who are excelling in their field – male grooming is a key focus for Fudge Professional and the industry and London School of Barbering are constantly striving in education and creativity; it's a strong association for us to be aligned alongside."
